

Birks Bridge, Lake District

Where the old stone pack horse bridge crosses the river Duddon, a small gorge can be explored. At just over three meters deep the gorge provides a fun playground in the crystal clear waters. Under the bridge is beautiful, the rock formations and the abeyance truly make for a divers paradise.

As this is a rural location, there are no facilities. Everything that you need will have to be taken along. The area as very steep road inclines to negotiate. Mobile phones do not work at this location.

